1. The dredge STRALSUND was hauled back to Stralsund from Sassnitz on 10 October 1952 and arrived on 21 October. The vessel had dredged to a depth of 6.8 meters the berth for sea police vessels in Sassnitz harbor north of the western mole.¹
2. On 4 November 1952, the dredges STRALSUND and GREIFSWALD were employed to dredge the Stralsund navigable channel to a depth of 6.2 meters within a period of four weeks. The dredge STRALSUND started working off the fish-landing place; the dredge GREIFSWALD began off Ruegendamm Bridge, working toward the STRALSUND. The suction dredge NIMMERSATT worked off the Daenholm, about 400 meters north-northeast of Ruegendamm Bridge.
3. Upon completion of the dredging operation, the dredge GREIFSWALD was scheduled to put into the Stralsund ship repair yard for general overhaul.

1. Comment. The transfer of the Dredge STRALSUND from Stralsund to Sassnitz was previously reported.
